

Acing Retirement in Spite of Sand Traps

Retirement. We spend our working years looking forward to it, imagining long, rewarding days spent doing what we love: playing with grandchildren, fishing on a lake, golfing... it's a time to check items off our 'bucket lists'. Retirement plans don't always factor in the hiccups that can accompany aging—aches and pains, etc. Joe V. from Nokesville, Virginia knows this all too well.

A retiree, Joe was diagnosed with prostate cancer more than 20 years ago. He survived, and like many prostate cancer survivors, he lives with urinary incontinence (UI). But Joe doesn't let UI stop him from living his retirement dream.

“I can't think of any other reason for making such a magnificent shot. Men's Liberty has made this possible for me.”

In fact, last Spring Joe checked off a very significant item from his bucket list while golfing at the Medal of Honor Golf Course at the Quantico Marine Base. On May 27, 2014, Joe aced the 14th hole—a challenging par three at 127 yards from the Senior Tees.

Joe attributes his achievement to, as he puts it, “sheer skill, luck, and being a member of the Men's Liberty family.” Men's Liberty is a revolutionary “urine collection device” for men that is completely external and can be worn for 24 hours at a time. The device is designed to be discreet, and provides freedom and mobility.

“Men's Liberty has given me the confidence to continue my pursuit of happiness.”

—Joe V., age 76

The next day, after Joe had the chance to reflect on his hole-in-one, he concluded, “By the time I reached the 14th hole, my Men's Liberty leg bag was full. I contemplated emptying it but decided to wait another hole before doing so.” As he set up to swing, Joe recalled the many times he'd been told to keep his left foot planted when making a shot. He said his left leg and foot didn't move an inch as he swung, most likely due to the weight of the full leg bag.

“I can't think of any other reason for making such a magnificent shot. Men's Liberty has made this possible for me.”

Men's Liberty is the next generation in male incontinence products.

More than 2.5 million Men's Liberty units have been used with zero attributable adverse effects including urinary tract infections.

Men's Liberty:

- ends dependency on adult diapers, pads and condom catheters
- completely external design affords freedom and flexibility
- covered by Medicare, VA/TriCare and most private insurance plans

To pursue your happiness call 800-814-3174
MensLiberty.com